

MISS CALGARY

INCREASED COST OF LIVING

Citizen: "Say—wow!—Miss Calgary—I'm being badly bitten!"

EYE OPENERS

Calgary's phenomenal prosperity and increasing population are in evidence on all hands. If there should be a doubling of the city in the next few years, it would be no wonder. The city is now a bustling metropolis, and the business streets are full of life. The city is now a bustling metropolis, and the business streets are full of life. The city is now a bustling metropolis, and the business streets are full of life.

Naturally there is a good deal of speculation in the realty market, but the main transactions are permanent investments, and a goodly proportion of the money that is invested in real estate is being put into the city. This is a fact that is well known to all who are interested in the city's future.

While we do not wish to encourage speculation, and have an instinctive aversion to "unearned increment," it is a well known fact that the city is now a bustling metropolis, and the business streets are full of life. The city is now a bustling metropolis, and the business streets are full of life.

The constant increase in population is shown in the bustling crowds thronging the sidewalks of the main business streets from early morning till late at night, and by the earnest search which is being made for rentable property. There is no city west of Winnipeg where so much practical activity is shown. Indeed, Calgary promises to witness more active spring and summer than any other city in the west.

All that is needed now to make Calgary the most desirable spot on the face of the earth is a reduction in the cost of living. Of course, if the land, labor and business men wish to sell the goods that are laying the golden egg, they have nothing more to say. In their frantic efforts to make hay while the sun shines, to the other members of the community they are looking up the great by the route, regardless of next year's crop.

The way some of those political statesmen quietly had themselves against a rainy day reminds one of the caution prevalent among dogs of baying voices in the backyard.

Well, the Lumber Combine investigators made one startling discovery anyhow. It was this:—

At the meeting of the lumbermen's association in January last it was admitted by the members themselves that their by-laws held them liable to prosecution and criminal action. Wherefore the by-laws were hastily changed.

THIS WAS AFTER THE PARLIAMENTARY INVESTIGATION HAD BEEN ORDERED. Are you not?

Motion for parliamentary inquiry was made in December. The Lumber Combine met and altered their by-laws in January. This was to save the members from criminal proceedings and a possible term in jail.

So far, none of the victims of the Combine (the independent dealers) have given testimony before the committee.

Hal, This looks better. The City Recorder has been instructed by the Council to notify the C.P.R. that the city is ready to proceed with their portion of the work in connection with the railway at First street west, at Third street west, and at the Elbow bridge.

It began to look as if the city council of '07 is going to prove itself the Very Best that Calgary has had in years.

There are no four-flushers on the scene, and they are all bent on getting the city licked into shape.

That is the story of the day, gentlemen. It is a story that is well known to all who are interested in the city's future.

In the course of the Telegraph and Telephone debate in the Ottawa municipal council, Senator Davis got the following off his stomach: "In Regina we have two daily papers, and in Edmonton we have two, and we have in Calgary one daily paper, and Edmonton three."

Calgary has three dailies, two published in the morning and one in the evening. Since no one arose to correct the senator, perhaps that Senator Loughheed, the alleged leader of the opposition, was not having a drink.

However, Senator Davis may be forgiven, because his speech was one of the best of the morning and one in the evening. Since no one arose to correct the senator, perhaps that Senator Loughheed, the alleged leader of the opposition, was not having a drink.

Frank Oliver's new Land Act outlines a policy as broad and generous, so beneficial to the settler and advantageous to the West, that Oliver stock has rushed away up to 115. The bill gave rise to a prolonged and most interesting debate, Mr. McArthur and Mr. Greenway being the most prominent participants therein. McArthur, who showed great familiarity with the subject of homesteads, pre-emptions and so forth, did not oppose the principle of the bill, but suggested a number of important changes and amendments which were adopted by the majority. "Maggie" plunged deep into the legislation which came up affecting the west and is listened to by the House with the keenest attention. This is the kind of member to have.

Did you ever pause to think that about ten years ago automobiles were about as great a curiosity as airships are in the present time of grace?

The following job, got off by some one connected with a Montreal bank, is not half bad.

Formerly Asst., December, 1906. Mr. J. M. Brown, Vice-President, Manager of the Bank of Canada, addressed the Ladies' Club Union at the City Hotel. He was received with great attention by the large and select audience. His address about "How to Cook Accounts" is expected to have a marked effect on the prices of corned beef hams in the near future. At the close of the meeting a vote of thanks was tendered the speaker, who was accompanied with a few "sentimental" words, and presented each of the audience of the Union with a copy of the 188 Bank of Canada Annual Statement.

New York, Dec. 23, 1906. The city is in a fever of excitement over the report that the eminent banker, Mr. D. M. Woodhead, is to arrive in the city tomorrow morning as a witness in the "Blue Bird".

London, Dec. 23, 1906. The First Bank opened a branch in the West yesterday. This report is not corroborated on deposit from the first four days' business. This is the 25th branch of the bank.

Let us all come.

William Drain, a license inspector in Massachusetts, while making an official visit to Kingston, had a rather peculiar rencontre with the hotel proprietor at that point, viz. The hotel proprietor, T. Craig, has been in the habit of making all the fighting men in that district take a back seat, and when Inspector Drain ordered him to clean up his premises, and keep a hotel, Mr. Craig did not appreciate those remarks, and locked the proprietor's room. The inspector, finding his room locked, called the proprietor, who informed him that the key was in his possession, and that he could not have a key in the hotel. Inspector Drain then asked permission to procure his key from the hotel, and was followed by Mr. Craig, who after entering the room, and locking the door, informed the inspector that he was prepared to put him out of business "for ever," and immediately started to do so, exhibiting thinking that the inspector was not very well acquainted with his duties. He must have been very much surprised when, after a few passes, the inspector grabbed him by the throat with an tight grip that he was unable to answer the inspector who asked what sort of business was held in his line.

Help was then called in and the unfortunate proprietor, Mr. Craig, was taken to bed. Thus the business world of the future is made.

George H. Burners and his very capable stock company are having a brilliant career at the Lethbridge show, being the only and only to all-round merit. Unlike most stock companies, they do not present the usual motley aggregation of theatricals and cheap amateurism revolving round a star, showing at each show on the stage with people that make fire and making otherwise ridiculous. On the contrary, outside actors, either as Burners himself, who stands head and shoulders above the ordinary run of comedians, the members of the company are individually good at their business. A large variety of plays are being put on, each apparently being a trifle better than the previous one. Those who have not witnessed a performance by this company have missed a very pleasant evening.

The annual monthly convention, starting pure-bred cattle, horse and fat stock shows, as well as the annual sale of bulls to be held at Calgary, April 2 to 6, will be the most important event of their kind held in Canada. The Alberta Cattle Breeders' Association have for years had the reputation of holding the largest association sale of pure-bred cattle on the continent, and this year's sale will still permit the association to hold this reputation.

The first week of April will be a holiday week for the residents of Alberta, as well as from nearly all the States and Territories, British Columbia, and a considerable amount of people will be added to the holiday for each visitor to these events. It is quite a rare run to the grounds and see a fine show, with good stock to be seen, and see up the animals on exhibition.

"BOW PARK"

Unquestionably the best buy ever placed upon the market in Calgary. Lying just across the Langevin Bridge, and adjoining Riverside, its closeness to the business portion of the city makes it very desirable.

The location for residential purposes is unsurpassed, and as an investment it presents an excellent opportunity.

Lots are now selling at $300.00 and upwards. Buy now. They will not last for long.
